

Author Index

- Athanases, S.Z., & Heath, S.B. (1995). Ethnography in the study of the teaching and learning of English. Vol. 29(3), 263-287.
- Chapman, M. (1995). The sociocognitive construction of written genres in first grade. Vol. 29(2), 164-192.
- Charney, D.H., & Carlson, R.A. (1995). Learning to write in a genre: What student writers take from model texts. Vol. 29(1), 88-125.
- Hilgers, T.L., Bayer, A.S., Stitt-Bergh, M., & Taniguchi, M. (1995). Doing more than "Thinning out the Herd:" How eighty-two college seniors perceived writing-intensive classes. Vol. 29(1), 59-87.
- Larson, R.L., & Saks, A.L. (1995). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. Vol. 29(2), 239-255.
- Levy, J. (1995). Using HAC-guided responsive journal writing to assess problem solving abilities: Preliminary correlations. Vol. 29(3), 355-359.
- Miall, D.S., & Kuiken, D. (1995). Aspects of literary response: A new questionnaire. Vol. 29(1), 37-58.
- Newell, G.E., & Winograd, P. (1995). Writing about and learning from history texts: The effects of task and academic ability. Vol. 29(2), 133-163.
- Newkirk, T. (1995). The writing conference as performance. Vol. 29(2), 193-215.
- Oliver, E.I. (1995). The writing quality of seventh, ninth, and eleventh graders and college freshmen: Does rhetorical specification in writing prompts make a difference? Vol. 29(4), 422-450.
- Paratore, J.R., Homza, A., Krol-Sinclair, B., Lewis-Barrow, T., Melzi, G., Stergis, R., & Haynes, H. (1995). Shifting boundaries in home and school responsibilities: The construction of home-based literacy portfolios by immigrant parents and their children. Vol. 29(4), 367-389.
- Prior, P. (1995). Tracing authoritative and internally persuasive discourses: A case study of response, revision, and disciplinary enculturation. Vol. 29(3), 288-325.
- Rosenblatt, L.M. (1995). Continuing the conversation: A clarification. Vol. 29(3), 349-354.
- Saks, A.L. (Ed.). (1995). Viewpoints: A symposium on the usefulness of literacy research. Vol. 29(3), 326-348.
- Saks, A.L., & Larson, R.L. (1995). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. Vol. 29(4), 451-467.
- Tremmel, R. (1995). Country life and the teaching of English. Vol. 29(1), 5-36.
- Walvoord, B.E., Anderson, V.J., Breihan, J.R., McCarthy, L.P., Robison, S.M., & Sherman, A.K. (1995). Functions of outlining among college students in four disciplines. Vol. 29(4), 390-421.
- Yagelski, R.P. (1995). The role of classroom context in the revision strategies of student writers. Vol. 29(2), 216-238.

Subject Index

Bibliographies

- Larson, R.L., & Saks, A.L. (1995). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. Vol. 29(2), 239-255.
- Saks, A.L., & Larson, R.L. (1995). Annotated bibliography of research in the teaching of English. Vol. 29(4), 451-467.

Historical Studies

- Tremmel, R. (1995). Country life and the teaching of English. Vol. 29(1), 5-36.

Literature

- Miall, D.S., & Kuiken, D. (1995). Aspects of literary response: A new questionnaire. Vol. 29(1), 37-58.

Researcher Education

- Athanases, S.Z., & Heath, S.B. (1995). Ethnography in the study of the teaching and learning of English. Vol. 29(3), 263-287.
- Levy, J. (1995). Using HAC-guided responsive journal writing to assess problem solving abilities: Preliminary correlations. Vol. 29(3), 355-359.
- Saks, A.L. (Ed.). (1995). Viewpoints: A symposium on the usefulness of literacy research. Vol. 29(3), 326-348.
- Rosenblatt, L.M. (1995). Continuing the conversation: A clarification. Vol. 29(3), 349-354.

Writing

- Chapman, M. (1995). The sociocognitive construction of written genres in first grade. Vol. 29(2), 164-192.

- Charney, D.H., & Carlson, R.A. (1995). Learning to write in a genre: What student writers take from model texts. Vol. 29(1), 88-125.
- Hilgers, T.L., Bayer, A.S., Stitt-Bergh, M., & Taniguchi, M. (1995). Doing more than "Thinning out the Herd:" How eighty-two college seniors perceived writing-intensive classes. Vol. 29(1), 59-87.
- Newell, G.E., & Winograd, P. (1995). Writing about and learning from history texts: The effects of task and academic ability. Vol. 29(2), 133-163.
- Newkirk, T. (1995). The writing conference as performance. Vol. 29(2), 193-215.
- Oliver, E.I. (1995). The writing quality of seventh, ninth, and eleventh-graders and college freshmen: Does rhetorical specification in writing prompts make a difference? Vol. 29(4), 422-450.
- Paratore, J.R., Homza, A., Krol-Sinclair, B., Lewis-Barrow, T., Melzi, G., Stergis, R., & Haynes, H. (1995). Shifting boundaries in home and school responsibilities: The construction of home-based literacy portfolios by immigrant parents and their children. Vol. 29(4), 367-389.
- Prior, P. (1995). Tracing authoritative and internally persuasive discourses: A case study of response, revision, and disciplinary enculturation. Vol. 29(3), 288-325.
- Walvoord, B.E., Anderson, V.J., Breihan, J.R., McCarthy, L.P., Robison, S.M., & Sherman, A.K. (1995). Functions of outlining among college students in four disciplines. Vol. 29(4), 390-421.
- Yagelski, R.P. (1995). The role of classroom context in the revision strategies of student writers. Vol. 29(2), 216-238.

